Careers In Nutrition

The study of food and nourishment, examining the nutritional content of different foods, the amount of nutrients required for healthy growth and function and how this varies for different people.

Bachelor’s Degree

Health Educators
Health educators teach people about behaviors that promote wellness. They develop and implement strategies to improve the health of individuals and communities.

Job Growth: 21%

Dietetic Technician
Assist in the provision of food service and nutritional programs, under the supervision of a dietitian.

Job Growth: 2.3%

Clinical Dietitian
Experts in food and nutrition. They advise people on what to eat in order to lead a healthy lifestyle or achieve a specific health-related goal.

Job Growth: 21%
Agriculture Scientist
Make sure the agriculture industry is productive and food is safe for human consumption!
Job Growth: 9%

$58,610

Public Health Nutritionist
MPH, Nutrition degrees study epidemiological impacts of nutrition and can work with the government to develop a healthier society.
Job Growth: 21%

$55,240+

Nutrition Professor
Post-secondary education, especially at community colleges, only requires a Master’s degree.
Job Growth: 19%

$68,970

Note: All job growth statistics refer to the projected percent change in employment from 2012 to 2022. All salaries listed are median job salaries not starting salaries.

Sources:
U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics
ONLINE MPHDEGREE.NET Distance Learning for Public Health