MISSION OF THE COLLEGE OF NATURAL SCIENCES

To provide an excellent, research-oriented education in science, mathematics and computing that fosters the success of its students; to discover important new knowledge through research; and to create an intellectually and scientifically enriched environment that advances a vibrant Texas and beyond.

A MESSAGE TO GRADUATES FROM THE DEAN

Dear Graduates,

Congratulations on this significant achievement! All your dedicated hard work, your many months of determined effort and your investments of energy and time have brought you to this point.

There has never been a more important moment for everything that you have learned than this one. You not only built skills and gained knowledge; you learned habits of thinking scientifically about problems and understanding the ways that new knowledge arrives in the world. Importantly, you both solved problems and built community with fellow problem-solvers in the College of Natural Sciences. Your time at The University of Texas at Austin has prepared you well for navigating inevitable cycles of change and being a leader in our complex world.

At UT, you have heard many times: What Starts Here Changes the World. That's because our graduates are innovators in their fields. They are change-makers. They are people whose guidance and ideas resonate. As you join the ranks of our alumni community, you are a part of this legacy.

Have a wonderful celebration this commencement weekend, and enjoy time with the people who supported you in reaching this milestone. On behalf of the faculty and staff, I wish you all the best for the next chapter in your journey.

PROCESSIONAL – “POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE,” SIR EDWARD ELGAR

WELCOME, OPENING REMARKS AND GUEST SPEAKER INTRODUCTION

David Vanden Bout, Dean

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

James Allison, Nobel Laureate, B.A. Microbiology, Class of 1969 & Ph.D. Biological Sciences, Class of 1973

INTRODUCTION OF STUDENT SPEAKER

Andreas Matouschek, Senior Associate Dean and Interim Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

SPEAKING FOR THE CLASS OF 2026

Mary Caroline Cole, B.S. Biochemistry, Honors, Special Departmental Honors in Biochemistry, Dean's Honored Graduate, Distinction in Research, Distinction in Service and Leadership
(8:00 AM ceremony)

Luisa Qingwen Mao, B.S. Mathematics, Honors, Special Departmental Honors for Math and Computer Science, B.S. Computer Science, Turing Scholars, Dean's Honored Graduate, Distinction in Research (1:00 PM ceremony)

RECOGNITION OF DEGREE CANDIDATES

David Vanden Bout, Dean

Andreas Matouschek, Senior Associate Dean

Anneke Chy, Assistant Dean for Advising and Student Support

Tepera Holman, Assistant Dean for Community and Student Engagement

CLOSING REMARKS

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

DR. JAMES P. ALLISON

Jim Allison (B.A. '69, Ph.D. '73), the 2018 Nobel laureate for physiology or medicine, is recognized internationally for his foundational discoveries in T cell biology that launched the field of cancer immunotherapy. He has spent a distinguished career studying the regulation of T cell responses and developing powerful strategies for therapy of many cancer types, establishing the field of immune checkpoint blockade therapy for cancer. Work in his lab led to the development of the life-saving cancer drug ipilimumab, the first immune checkpoint blockade therapy approved by the FDA. Ipilimumab has been approved as part of the therapeutic regimen for metastatic melanoma, renal cell carcinoma and lung cancer. Allison's current work seeks to improve immune checkpoint blockade therapies currently used by clinicians and identify new targets to unleash the immune system to eradicate cancer. He is regental professor and chair of the MD Anderson Immunology department and the founding director of the James P. Allison Institute.

Allison is a member of the National Academies of Sciences and Medicine and the winner of many awards, including the Breakthrough Prize in Life Sciences, Lasker-DeBakey Clinical Medical Research award, the Balzan Prize, the Kovalenko Medal from the National Academy of Sciences, the King Faisal Prize in Medicine, and the BBVA Foundations of Knowledge Prize. Allison earned his bachelor's and doctoral degrees at The University of Texas at Austin, and he completed his postdoctoral fellowship in molecular immunology at Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation. He is a distinguished alumnus of the University and has been inducted in the UT College of Natural Sciences Hall of Honor and in the National Inventors Hall of Fame.

STUDENT SPEAKERS

MARY CAROLINE COLE

(8:00 AM)

Caroline Cole is graduating with an honors B.S. in biochemistry, earning distinctions in research and in service and leadership. Her research spans biochemical and microbiological systems and includes work at NASA-affiliated facilities and the SETI Institute, where she studied extremophile proteins using temperature-dependent X-ray crystallography. At UT, Cole contributed to genomic analyses of deep-sea carbon cycling in the Baker Marine Microbial Ecology Lab under the direction of Brett Baker and Emily Hyde. Through the Urban Ecosystems Freshman Research Initiative stream, she led undergraduate research teams studying bioremediation using algal-bacterial consortia. Her work has resulted in peer-reviewed publications, national conference presentations and multiple research awards. In addition to her involvement in research, Cole has played a significant role in undergraduate education, independently teaching classes and mentoring large instructional teams. She is a recipient of a National Science Foundation graduate research fellowship. In the fall, she will pursue a Ph.D. in Earth systems science at Stanford University.

LUISA QINGWEN MAO

(1:00 PM)

Luisa Mao is graduating with B.S. degrees in computer science and mathematics as a Turing Scholar and Dean's Scholar. She is a recipient of the National Science Foundation graduate research fellowship, the Goldwater Scholarship and the Astronaut Scholarship, and she is a finalist for the Texas Parents Outstanding Student Award. Mao has taken top honors repeatedly from the Computing Research Association, earning an honorable mention in 2025 and the Outstanding Undergraduate Researcher Award in 2026. Her research focuses on robotics and computer vision for robot learning and was conducted in the Autonomous Mobile Robotics Lab under the mentorship of Joydeep Biswas. Mao's work reflects a strong interest in autonomy, perception and learning systems. After graduation, she will join Physical Intelligence, a leading industry research lab developing vision-language-action models for robotics.

CNS DISTINCTIONS

Students who have distinguished records of service, excellence, leadership, research achievement, community engagement and entrepreneurialism are nominated by faculty, staff and peers for College of Natural Sciences Distinctions. A review committee selects students from among those nominated who made substantial impact through their contributions during their time at The University of Texas at Austin.
